

Optimist
2020
80 x 80 cm
Acrylic on canvas

It is said that artists thrive during difficult times. I am not so sure. So many worries: friends struggling to survive the virus – family at risk. How can your creativity flow with such a burden, so many interfering thoughts? I believe that the creativity will come afterwards. All the impressions and experiences will produce a plethora of work.

The painting is called «Optimist» (80 x 80 cm, acrylic on canvas). I have lived through much more difficult times than this. Now we must live the life which is required for this situation. Maybe it will get worse before it gets better – but it will get better. This keeps me going. I am extremely good at moving on. I have a survival instinct.

Anne Guttormsen Fraser

3. April 2020

www.serianna.no